

Important facts about Legimus

If your disability makes it difficult for you to read printed text, you have the right to access the content of books in a way that suits you. Making that possible for you is the task of the Swedish Agency for Accessible Media (MTM). That is why the Legimus digital library exists.

These rules apply when you borrow and read books in Legimus:

- You can only use Legimus if you have a disability that makes it difficult to read printed text.
- You have to provide accurate information about why you need to use Legimus. If you knowingly provide incorrect information, you may lose the right to use the service.
- Other people may not use your login to read books in Legimus. If that happens, you may be locked out of your Legimus account.
- A downloaded book is a loan. After 6 months, you have to delete the files yourself.
- Selling or sharing books from Legimus is illegal.
- If you move or stop studying, you have to switch to a library in the place where you now live or study. Your new library will help you continue using Legimus.

Learn more about applicable laws and rules in the user agreement.